FOREWORD

Time — always present, always moving — makes up all of the yesterdays, todays, tomorrows. A year passes quickly and much of it can be easily forgotten. THAT

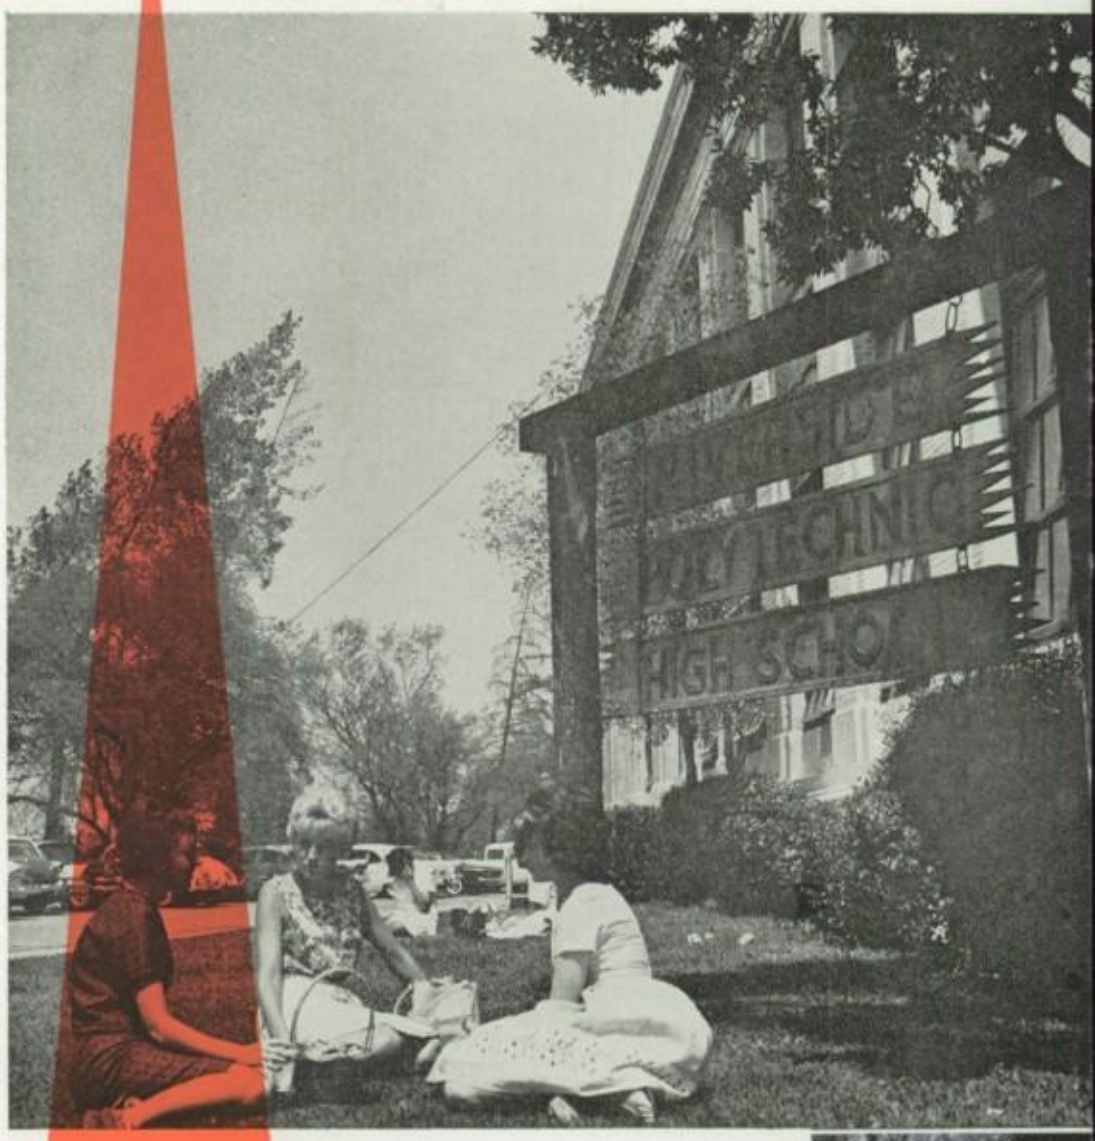
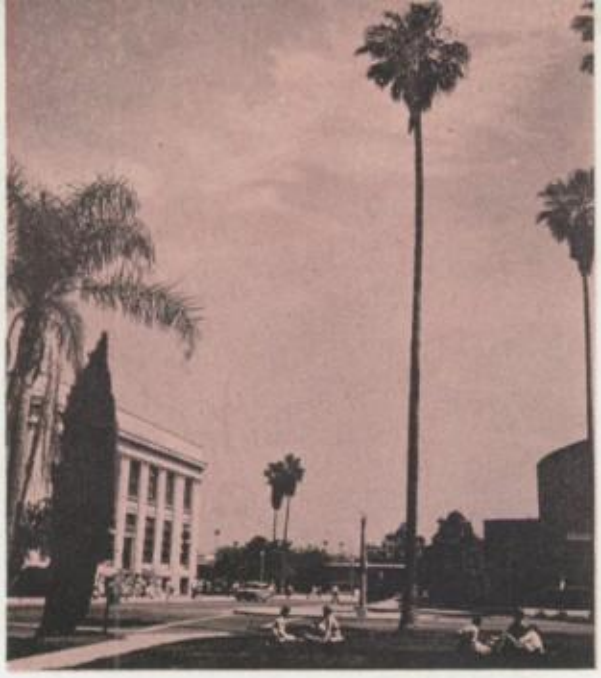
WE WILL

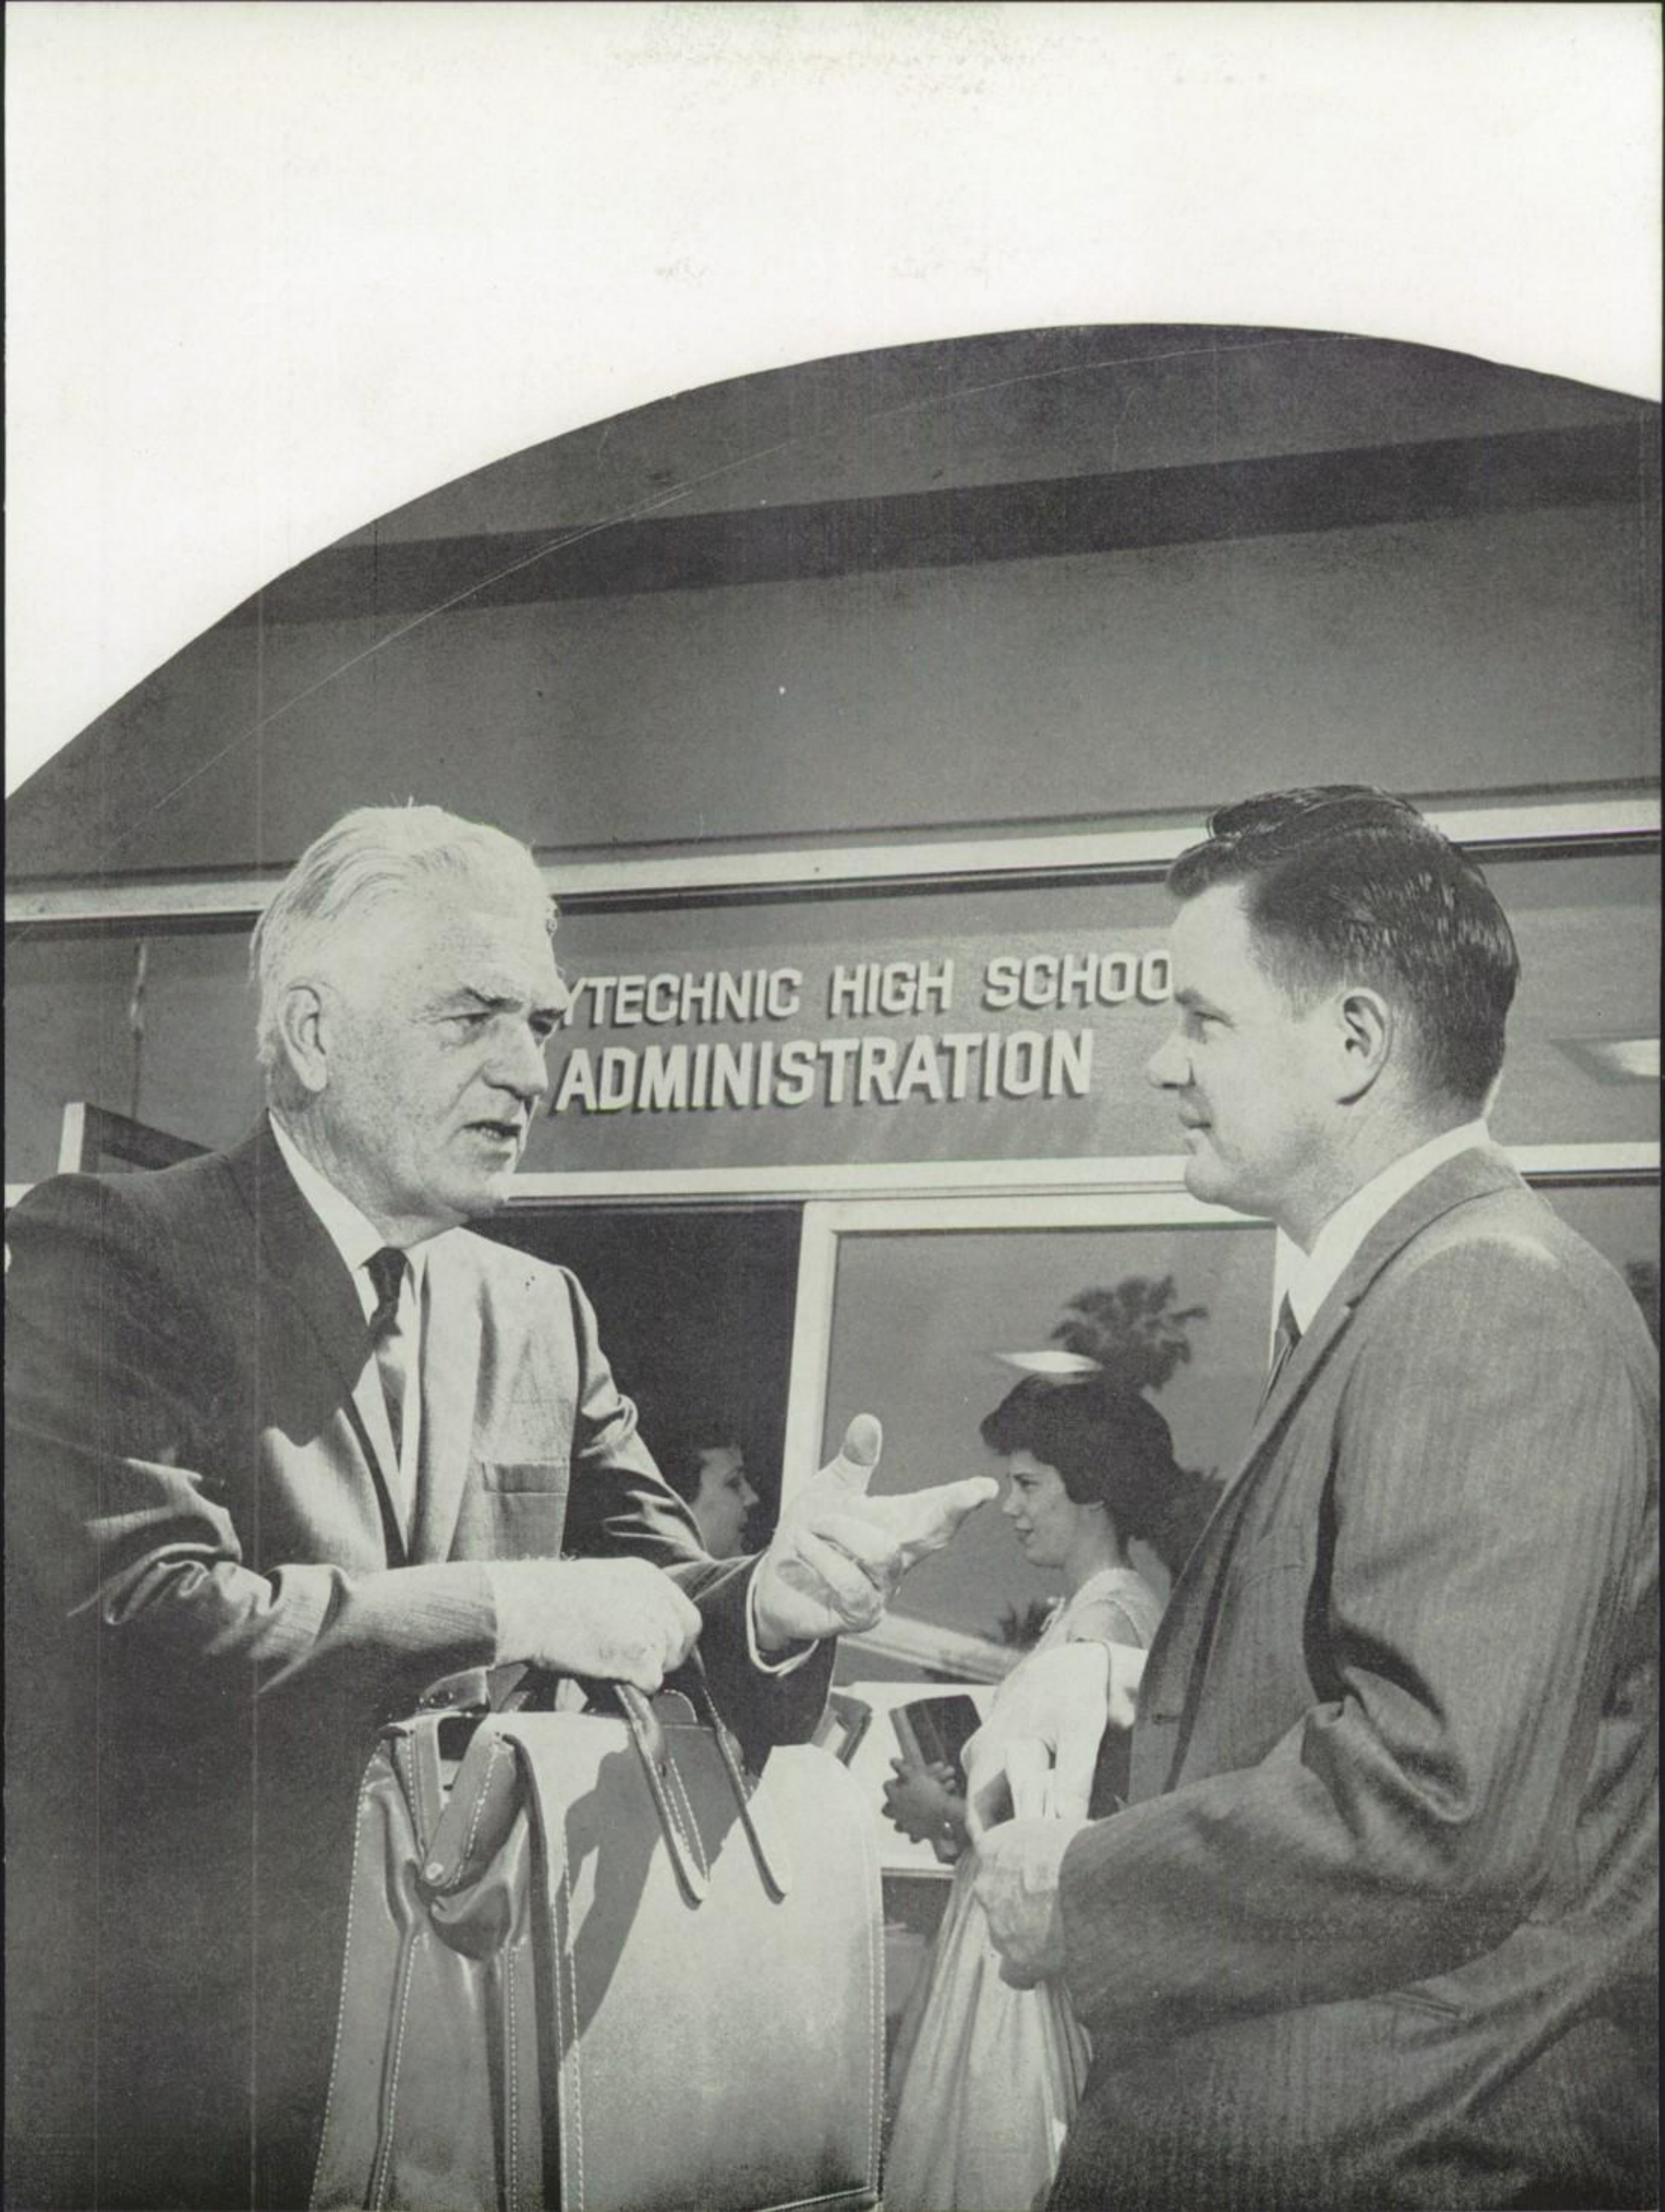
NEVER FORGET





Here we all had some time to do a great deal of "growing up." Some may have done a little better job of it than others; but, in any case, on this campus and in these buildings, we spent many magic moments and months that have stored in our minds memories that will always be a part of us. And this is as it should be; for in the years ahead, we shall all come to reflect fondly upon the priceless values of friendships formed here, associations enjoyed here, and achievements that made history here. You don't believe it? Time will tell! Wait — and see!

administration



YTECHNIC HIGH SCHOO
ADMINISTRATION

To keep a system of schools running smoothly requires drive, intelligence, and a sense of humor. Riverside is extremely fortunate to have as Superintendent of Schools a man who has all of these qualities and more, Mr. Bruce Miller. His capable and efficient administration has earned him the confidence of the city, while his interest and personal visits to Poly have earned him the respect and gratitude of the entire student body.

They gave many

A large part of the success of any school system depends on the ability of the Board of Education. The fact that Riverside has outstanding schools speaks clearly of the competence of the school board. The members of the board, all of whom have given much extra time and effort to their jobs, deserve credit and praise for their excellent work. Standing: Superintendent of Schools Mr. Bruce Miller, Mr. Rae Sharp, Mr. Arthur Littleworth. Seated: Mrs. Carolyn G. Diffenbaugh, President Mr. Richard B. Hampson, Mrs. Gladys Babcock.

Every club, even the Faculty Club, has officers to keep the noise down to a roar. Chief officers of the Faculty Club are president, Mr. William Collopy; vice-president, Miss Mildred Ayers; secretary-treasurer, Mr. Orrin Rife; and co-social chairmen Miss Vicki Schouler and Mrs. Cleo Zehnpfenig.

hours to education

A new twist on the old coffee break is the faculty tea. Faculty members take in equal parts of tea and conversation.

Poly's principal, Mr. George Wrentmore, has a rare combination of abilities. He is able to be a firm administrator while retaining the friendship of the students. Because of his warm and sympathetic personality, many students brought their problems to him and benefited from his wise advice. He always had time to listen to new ideas and to congratulate students on their individual achievements. We at Poly will always remember Mr. Wrentmore's encouragement and sincere interest, and will always think of him with affection and respect.

They wound up Poly and kept it

Mr. B. F. Thorson is a man who has an astounding variety of responsibilities. They range from supervising student body funds and the ordering of textbooks, to offering advice on the ASB budget and directing athletic events. As if these jobs weren't enough, he is also Dean of Boys and Attendance Supervisor, both time-consuming and difficult jobs. Mr. Thorson's wide range of abilities has earned him the admiration and friendship of Poly students.

The students at Poly believe that they have a very unusual Vice Principal in Mr. Luther Davission. When his duties as disciplinarian demand that he be firm, he handles the situation with tact and understanding. When his job as director of assemblies led to a pie in the eye, he didn't lose his sense of humor (even when the pie turned out to be eye-stinging soapsuds!) The time Mr. Davission has spent at his work has helped Poly to become an even better school.

Miss Jean Thayer has served Poly in many capacities this year. In addition to her duties as Dean of Girls and Guidance Director, she has spent many hours advising the Girls' League, directing the Career Day Committee, and assisting students with scholarships. Regardless of her great number of responsibilities, Miss Thayer is never too busy to offer understanding and sympathy to the innumerable students who come to her with their problems. Countless seniors leave Poly with warm memories of our charming Dean of Girls.

running smoothly

Mr. Robert McClintock invited Mr. Ramon Awtrey in for a look at the latest speed reading techniques. Both men teach English in their spare time.

Mr. Howard Hough and Mr. Harold Williams get away from their English classes long enough to relax and enjoy the beautiful beach scene.

Miss Patricia Henry and Mrs. Patricia Edwards listen as a student explains why he labeled "I" as a verb on the last English test.

"Gee," sigh Mrs. Margaret Lawson and Miss Alice Brekke. "Spring Vacation is only three days away." The same dreaming has overtaken all of their English classes.

Remember Shakespeare

Miss Laura McKeever, Mrs. Erma Haley, and Mrs. June Ward asked their English classes who had been tracking across the clean white paper, but nobody could explain it.

The photographer caught Miss May Henry looking up some fine points about the life of her favorite author.

All incoming English students BE ALERT! Miss Agnes McAbee and Mrs. Thelma Patterson are devising new and interesting things for their classes next year.

and Aristotle?

Mr. William Bell, III, Peyton Cole's favorite (and only) reads a quotation. They both agreed that it was a good quote for their English classes to memorize.

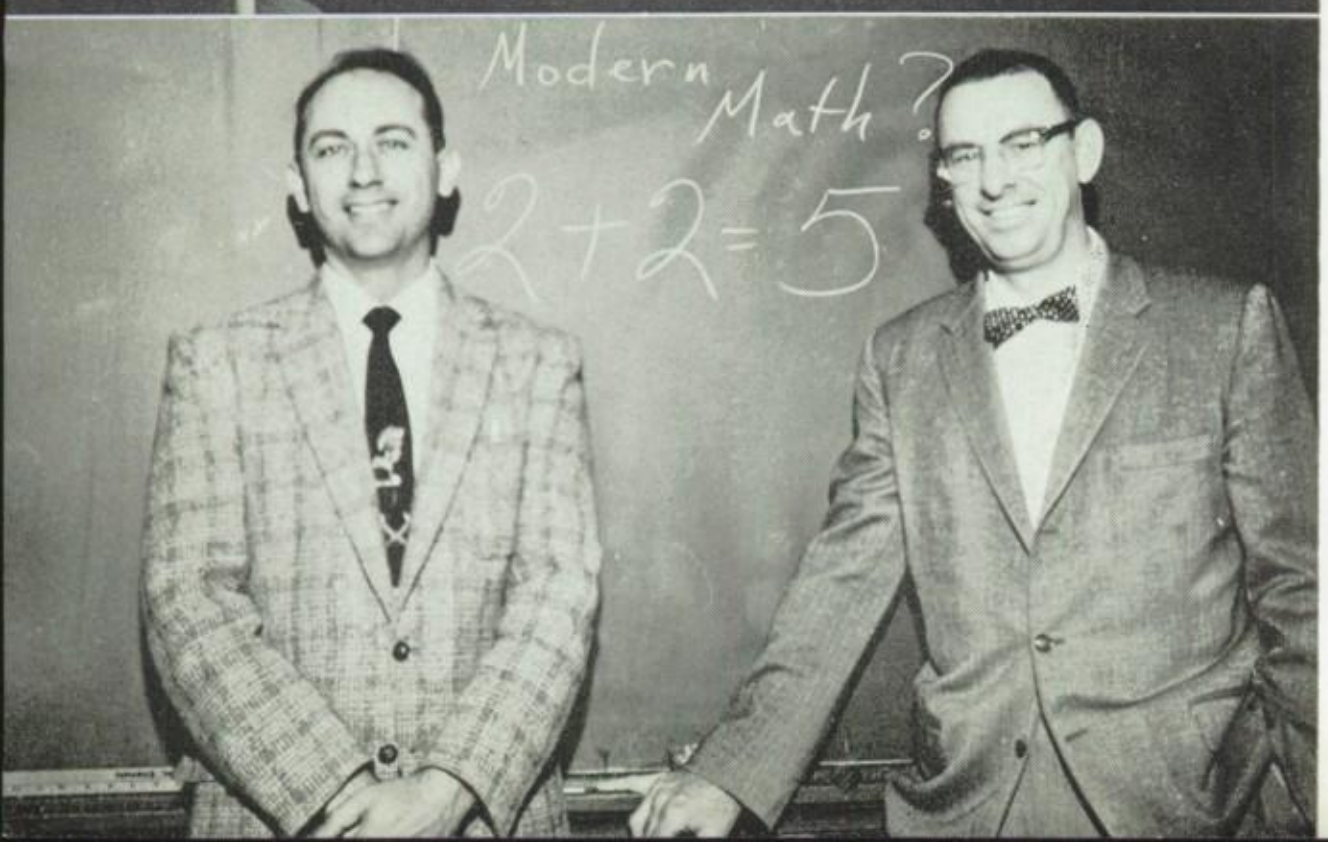
Mr. William Bell, III, Peyton Cole's favorite (and only) English teacher, demonstrates that there is more than one way to make a student contribute to the Thanksgiving drive.

Miss Carolyn Thorsen, Mrs. Anne Rush, and Mrs. Sarah Varnell work on the next week's assignments for their math classes.

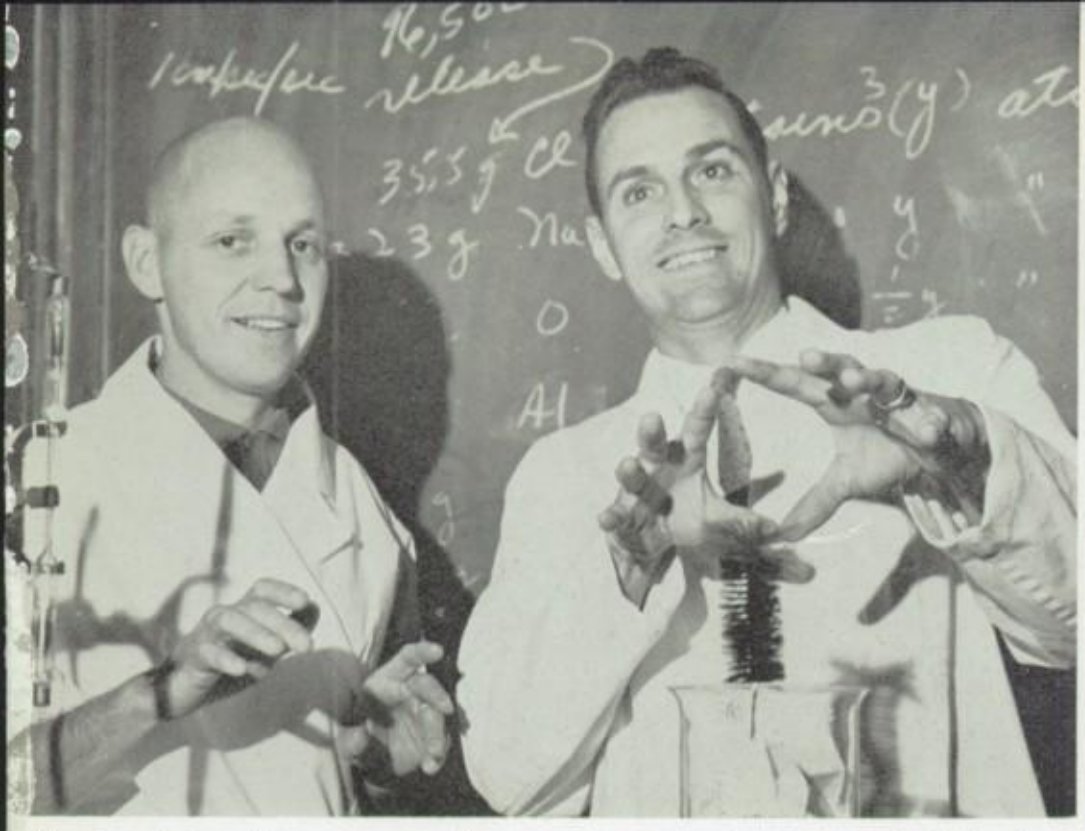
Mr. Glenn McGowen was caught by the photographer just as he was strolling across campus to his math class.

They explained

Mr. William Collopy, Mr. Mead Camp, Mr. Harry Monson, and Mr. John Pope gather for a friendly lunch-time game of Old Maid. They never have told their math classes who is the Old Maid!



Mr. Joe Engers and Mr. David Bigbee stand proudly by their latest mathematical achievement. Who has the heart to tell them that someone makes the same mistake—er, creates the same theory every day?



". . . and then there were none." Mr. Roy Ringwald and Mr. Robert Mitchell talk gleefully about the dangers of being a "kid chemist."

Mr. George Londos and Mr. Raphael Hawley seem to have their backs to a wall but their science classes will testify that that hardly ever happens.

angles and atoms

Mr. Donald Brummel and Mrs. Emma Blakesley demonstrate a biology experiment for their classes. The experiment resembles the Indian rope trick but is actually illustrating the principle of osmosis.

Kay Ashbrook, Mr. Roy Ringwald, and Jane Zentmyer concentrate on a chemistry experiment.

Mr. Earle Green gives his famous smile for his history classes before launching into his lecture.

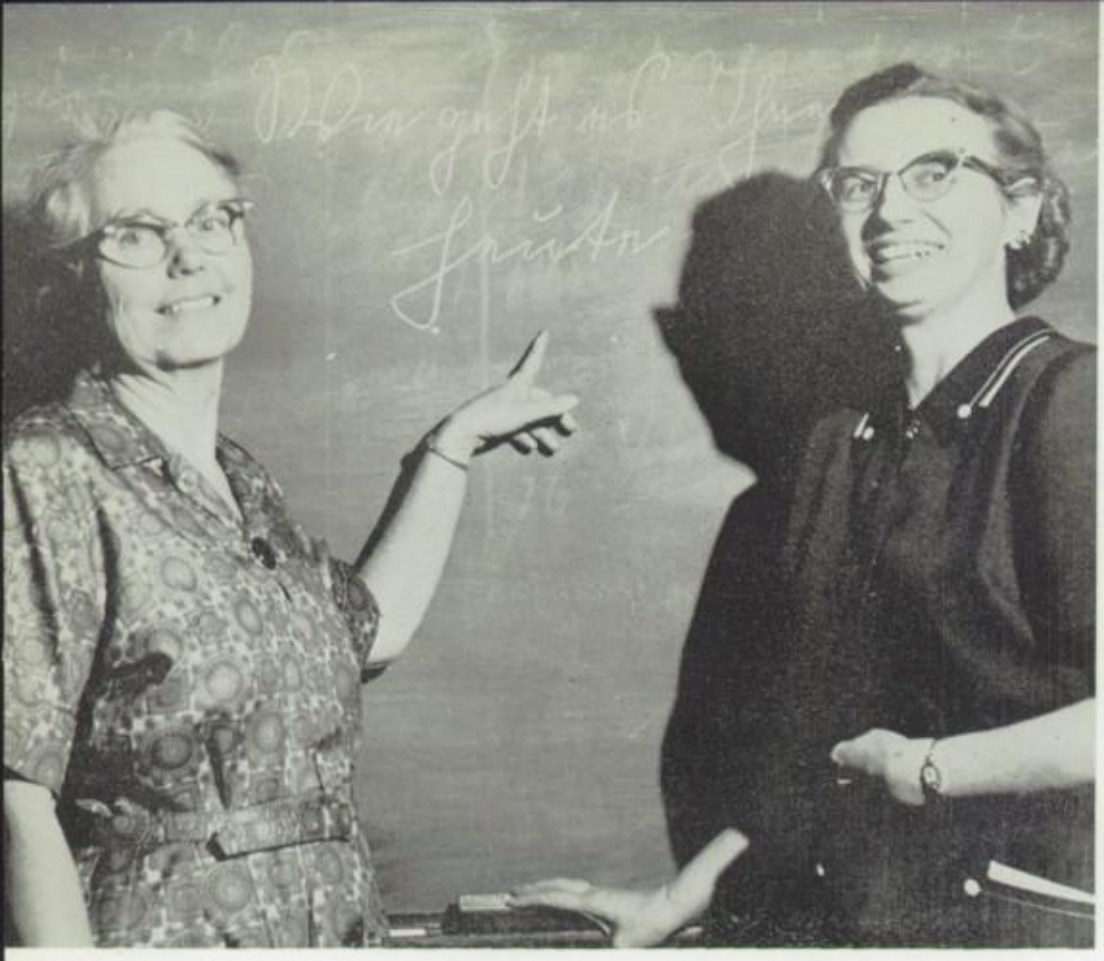
History teachers, Mr. Jack Smith and Mr. William James, seem to feel that the rod is rigged in favor of the fish. It's just as well — fishing isn't allowed at Lake Mathews, anyway.

"So that's what makes my students tick!" exclaims Mr. W. K. Adams to Mr. Owen Eister. Actually, since both are psychology teachers, they already had a pretty good idea of how a student's brain works.

They spoke of kings

Mrs. Marie Mackenzie, Mrs. Loraine Thomas, and Mrs. Helen Neblett show some of the articles that they use to create student interest in history classes and to keep the students alert.

"Imagine that! The world is really round!" Mr. William Borum and Mr. Walter Davidson seem to be in a daze over their joint discovery. Have they told the students in their history classes?



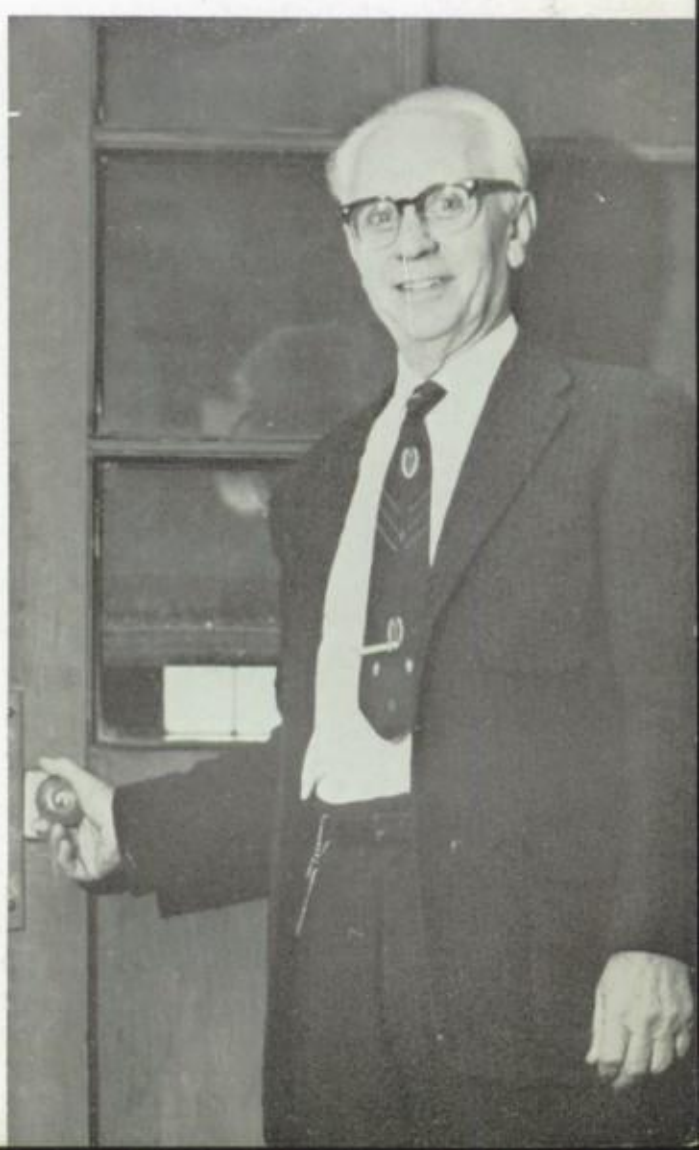
Miss Gladys Gilbert and Miss Gerda Schulze, both language teachers, decided to try out teaching methods on each other before trying them on their classes.

Mr. Edward Strauch and Mr. Joseph Leuenberger laugh as they remember some of the embarrassing language mistakes they made while they were studying to become teachers. Now they can laugh over their students' red faces.

and queens and nouns and verbs

Spanish teachers, Mr. Wilbur Booth and Miss Delia Lopez, walk proudly into Mr. Booth's classroom. Miss Lopez couldn't believe that a whole Spanish class had completed all the homework until she had seen the miracle for herself.

Mr. Louis List smiles at the end of a long day. Being a language teacher is not a very restful job when almost every student "forgot" what the assignment was.



Ellen Hamilton signals to Mrs. Elsie Adelson, our school nurse, that she heard the last "ping."

Poly librarians, Mr. Russell West and Mrs. Jo Ellen Dooley, try to look up the answer to a question that bothers all librarians — "Why do people have to talk in the library?"

Sometimes we painted; sometimes we panicked

Mr. Raymond Riggio, Mrs. Monnie Peck, Mrs. Margaret Blackwell, and Mrs. Marion Morris had just stepped out of their special education classes for lunch when they were trapped by the roving KOALA photographer.

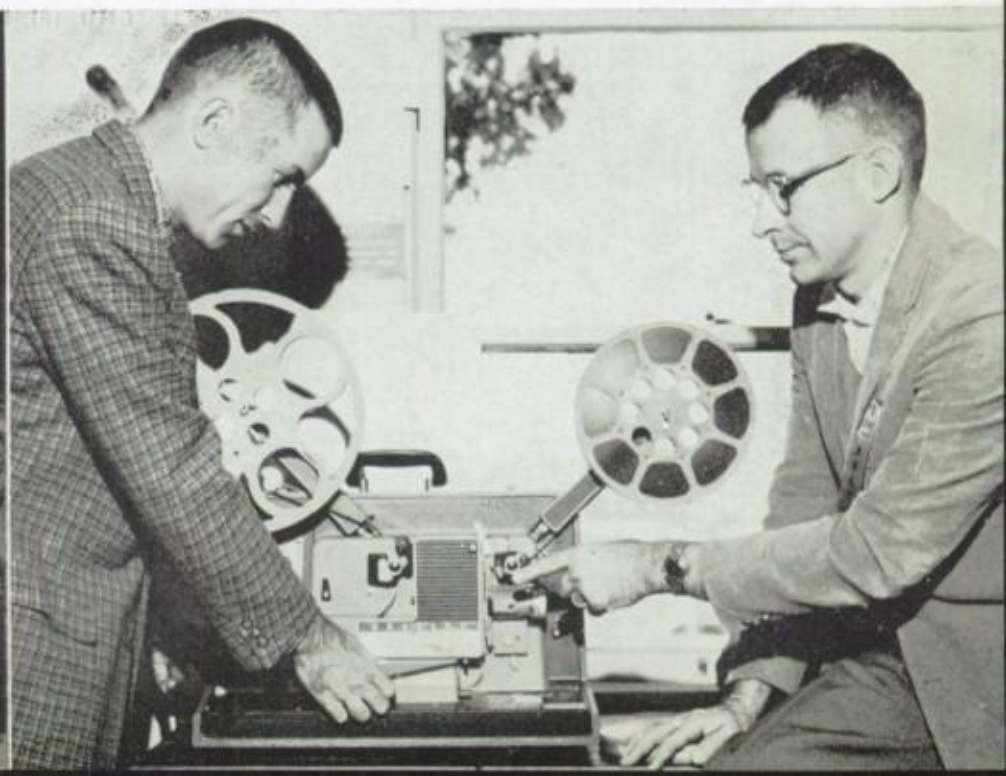
This happy threesome, Mr. Ralph Butterfield, Mr. Don White, and Mr. Donald Knie, represent most of the artistic talent in Poly, as their students will readily admit.

our teachers

Getting in a little practice driving are Mr. Cecil Cushman and Mr. John Elliott. They wanted to be in top form before teaching their Driver Education classes.

Mr. Leslie Eynon and Mr. Alvin Martin get a kick out of censoring the films to be shown to their Driver Education classes. Or are those really Driver Education films?!

Mr. Richard Curry and Mr. Prescott Cogswell set up the projector before showing their Driver Education classes a film titled "How to Accordion Pleat a Car."



From toning up muscles in gym classes to making up sparkling choreographies in dance classes, Mrs. Dorothea Sharp and Miss Mildred Ayers have worked as hard as their most active students.

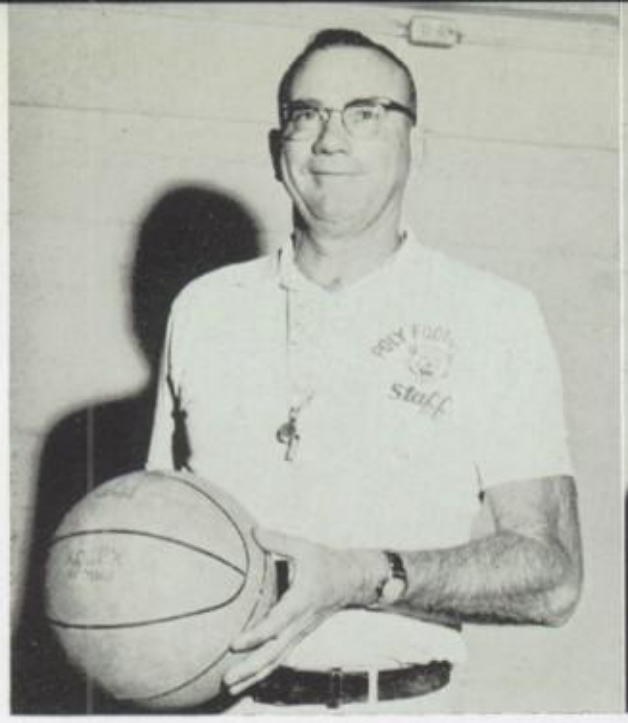
"Now when I say 'go!' . . . go!" Miss Suzanne Elliott instructs Mrs. Pat Robertson in the flying take off used by sprinters.

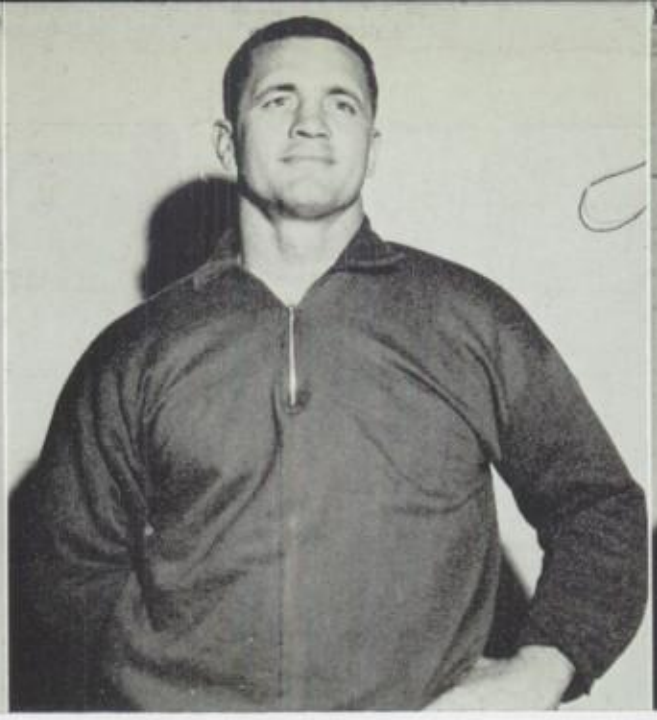
Miss Nadine Nixon counts the towels to make sure that there will be enough for every girl in the swimming class. As every girl knows, there's nothing worse than dripping from class to class because there weren't enough towels.

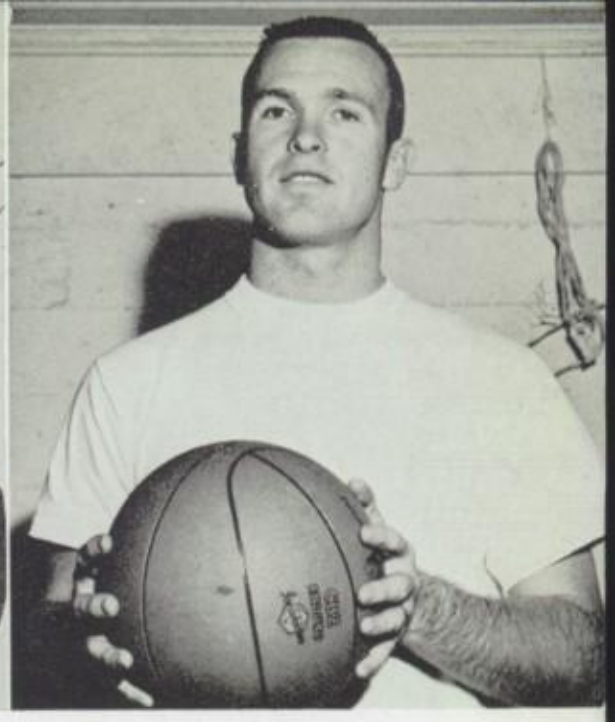
The time for exercise

Sergeant Charles Cobb, Sergeant Ralph Hall, and Captain John Weil patiently instruct George Harmon, Paul Sanchez, and Tom Shanks which end is the business end of a ROTC rifle.

Coach C. W. Mumma worked his cross-country team hard, but the results were worth it. The team learned sportsmanship and the meaning of physical discipline.







Coaches Orrin Rife, varsity basketball; Tom Massey, varsity wrestling; and Gene Hughes, junior varsity basketball, have put a lot of time and muscle into shaping up Poly's basketball and wrestling squads.

Coach Earl Marshall, track, has heard enough of "get on your mark, get set, go" for twelve men, yet he's always eager for the next meet.

is all the time

Coach Robert Hallock takes a deep breath before joining his varsity swimming and water polo boys. After teaching boys' swimming he needs a breather.

Coach Ben Hammerschmidt, football, and Coach Bruce Wilson, baseball, give the Poly Bear, Bonnie Greene, last minute orders about mingling with rival team members.

Baking a treat for their home economics classes are Mrs. Cleo Zehnpfenig, Miss Vicky Schouler, and Mrs. Eleanor Snedden.

Mr. R. F. Phillips, who is in charge of journalism, Mr. Richard Epp, who teaches printing, and Beverly Linrud, who makes a good decoration, take a sneak peek at The Spotlight.

Mr. Richard Stover, who leads the band and orchestra, and Mr. Sam Thompson, who is in charge of the choral groups, decided on drum sticks at noon to settle their differences. Neither recommends it—the sticks never play the same again.

We kept time to tunes

Mr. Robert Dyer, Poly drama teacher, is trying to teach Miss Dixie Surry, whose field is speech, how to become a bookend by using the "method."

Students who use the A.S.B. Store will recognize Mrs. Margaret Pofahl, who is always willing to help students buy school supplies.

Miss Shirley Smith and Mrs. Dorothy Rooney decide to take some of the advice they give to their business education classes, and practice typing.

Miss Margaret Elliott keeps adept at shorthand by practicing. She keeps her business classes adept by assigning homework.

Business education teacher, Miss Betty Anderson, demonstrates that a very important part of business is to be able to relax when under pressure.

Mr. Robert Wright and Mr. Ralph Brand chuckle over a mistake made by one of their commercial students.

Miss Dorothy Schnee smiles while trying to decide what to assign to her business classes. Watch out, classes!

The photographer snapped Mr. John Oliver and Mr. Paul Rupel just as they were relaxing after the walk to the "hole." After seeing their pleased faces, their mechanical drawing students would know that the latest batch of drawings was quite good.

Agriculture teachers Mr. Harold Seigworth and Mr. Zola DuBois point out to student Christi Caldwell that a taffeta party dress is not the proper apparel for visiting her pet pigs. "But," Christi assured them, "I'm wearing my tennies."

Time for shop and

Mr. Robert Dickson hesitates before throwing the switch; he never is sure what his electronics shop students might have been up to.

"All right, who stole the engine?" Actually shop teachers Mr. Charles Webber and Mr. George Mosher didn't lose the engine; they just looked in the wrong place.

Mr. George Bronstrup and Mr. Irving Hicks smile proudly over the handiwork of one of their shop students. The best work of the shop students is displayed at the Creative Arts Festival.

The fast, friendly service of these women has been appreciated by the students who eat at the lunch stands. They have our thanks! Row 1: Mrs. Velma Neal, Mrs. Mary Hegerick, Mrs. Lucy Smith, Mrs. Violet Hansen. Row 2: Mrs. Mildred Fisher, Mrs. Aileen Moran, Mrs. Claire Jackson, Mrs. Toni Prossi, Mrs. Maxine Corridan, Mrs. Georgia Mae Anderson, Mrs. Susie Stevens, Mrs. Agnes Luallin, Mrs. Edith Gregory.

time out for lunch

Poly could never have made it through the year without the hard work of these secretaries. They typed and filed their way through mountains of paper, but were never too busy to answer any question a student might ask. From top to bottom, left to right: Mrs. Norma Dowds, Mrs. Kathryn Jones, Mrs. Helene McDaniel, Mrs. Rachel McIntyre, Mrs. Veda O'Keefe, Mrs. Janet Marshall, Mrs. Martha Chesley, Mrs. Judy Moore, Mrs. Margaret Horton, Mrs. Mae Myers, and Mrs. Ruth Smith.

Without the cafeteria workers' speedy service, most of the hungry mob of Poly students wouldn't get fed at lunch time. Row 1: Mrs. Ethel Burrow, Mrs. Natalie McCarthy, Mrs. Ruth Green, Mrs. Sara Townsend. Row 2: Mrs. Rheba Harris, Mrs. Edith Stout, Mrs. Kay Lewis, Mrs. Esther Schappel. Row 3: Mrs. Dene Miller, Mrs. Lucile Patterson, Mrs. Sibyl Whitten, Mrs. Viva Randeall.

Coach Robert Hallock watches anxiously as Mr. William Borum announces the progress of Poly's mermen. Coach Hallock needn't have worried — the Bears came out on top, as usual.

They gave their time to activities

From officiating at track meets to or--ganizing fashion shows, Poly's teachers gave up much of their time to direct student activties. Choreo, choral pro-grams, and school plays all owed much of their success to the teachers who spent many after-school hours working with the students. When it came to sports, the faculty really worked over-time. They scooped up stray basket-balls, ducked baseballs while they call-ed the plays, and taped up cracked skulls after the Bears' gridiron battles. Poly's teachers offered students their years of learning, and gave us special help if we found ourselves below "C" level. They worked backstage teaching cast members "The Importance of Being Earnest" while "Annie" got her gun. The faculty members came to know us personally as they sponsored every school club from AFS to CSF and en-couraged participation in all ASB activ-ities. The combination of talent and willingness on the part of the faculty enabled Poly students to enjoy differ-ent and exciting activities through the year.

Mrs. Cleo Zehnpfenig adjusts the hem on Cody Chaffins' new coat which she is going to model in Poly's annual fashion show.

In Mr. Sam Thompson's music class, silence is definitely not golden! Mr. Thompson and many other teachers have given much of their spare time to make Poly's programs spirited successes that were enjoyed and remembered by all who saw them.

as well as to classes.

Mr. B. F. Thorson and Mr. Luther Davisson give moral support to student Mary Cutshall as she holds the finish tape at one of our track meets. Mary needed the support; she was all for dropping the tape and cheering the Bears on to victory.

Senior sponsors Mrs. Anne Rush, Mr. Zola DuBois, Mr. Walter Davidson, and Mrs. Pat Edwards send up a collective sigh of relief after successfully finishing a year with the high-spirited seniors and their many senior activities.

Three years ago Poly noticed a strange species of human beings wandering around its campus. Poly's upperclassmen caught, examined, and classified the species as "Quelks." In their sophomore year the Quelks had the student body rolling in the aisles with their hilarious sophomore assembly, "The Late, Late Show." As juniors they staged the comedy hit "Dobie Gillis," and whirled the prom-loving seniors around to the tune of "Carousel." As seniors they were physically fit, and proved it by trouncing the Yucaiques and Obarphs in the Interclass Track Meet. Soon preparations for graduation filled their time—announcements to order, cap and gown measurements, and writing that last high school term paper. The years at Poly are gone, but they will never be forgotten. Their experiences, joys, and lessons added new depth to the seniors' personalities, and gave them wonderful memories to carry through life.

was their best year

"Did you hear that John broke his leg last night?" This and other tidbits of gossip are part of the fun that goes on at the Senior table after school, or any old time.

Senior counselors Mrs. Arthur Smith and Mrs. Willetta Mulkey pause to admire a document stating that the senior record for unorthodox activities was at an all-time low this year, thanks to their excellent advice.

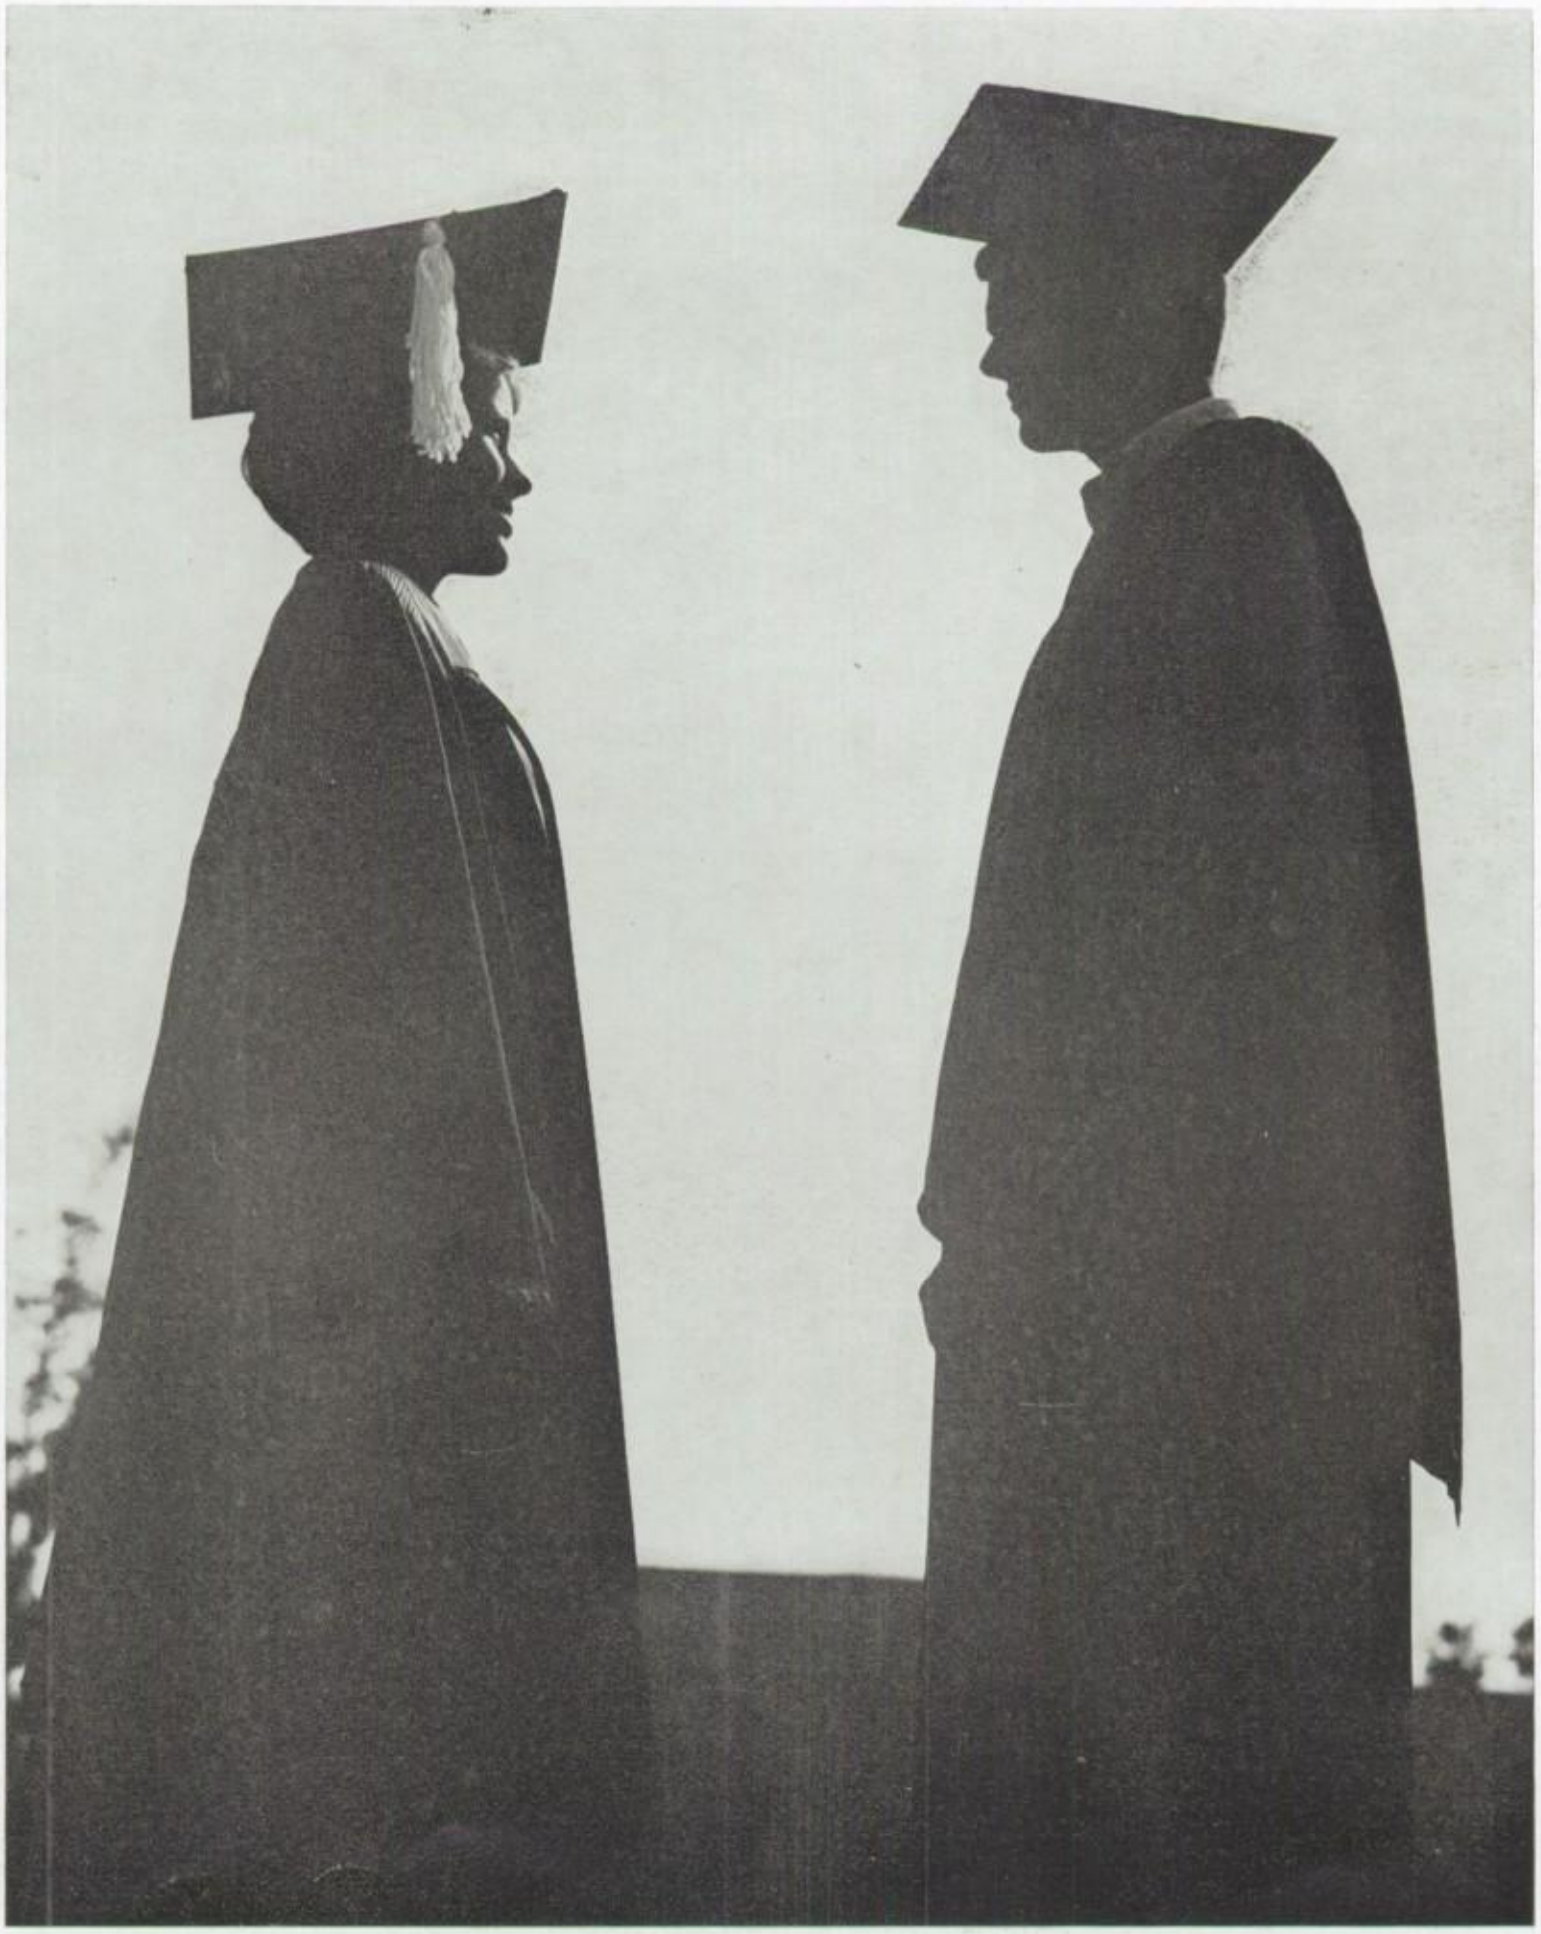
No matter how much a senior prepares for and looks forward to graduation time, it always takes him by surprise. It couldn't possibly be here, yet here it is! Suddenly high school is over and a new life is beginning. It is a little frightening, but it is also wonderful. Sue Cruse and Renato Barahona share this feeling of beginning as they look to the future.



Joan Schulz (left), the efficient Junior Class Secretary, kept records of all the information that Jim Martin, as a busy President, and Betsy Neblett, as a hard-working Vice-President, would need to keep the Junior class activities running smoothly.

Andrea Balogh, Junior Girls' Welfare officer, and Bob Wrentmore, Boys' Welfare officer, both agree that their jobs are impossible. The boys don't want to be protected from the girls and the girls won't be protected from the boys!

The Juniors were

Bonnie Selway (left) handles more money than the average teen-age girl in performing the job of Junior class Treasurer. Her friend, Betty Arbon, is the social-minded Social Chairman of the Junior class and as such keeps the class in an active whirl.

Big brother is watching you (and big sister, too), but the Junior class isn't afraid. It knows that counselors, Miss Alice Hedden and Mr. LeRoy Watters, have only the entirely honorable intention of giving the Juniors the best possible advice on their problems.

Junior class sponsors: Mr. John Pope, Mr. Robert McClintock, Mrs. Pat Robertson, and Miss Shirley Smith relax after a harrowing year of directing the activities of the energetic Junior class.

Counselors Mr. Milton Tew and Mrs. Ruth Wheeler pooled their wisdom and experience to advise the Sophomores on conduct becoming to an Obarph. Their combination of cheerfulness, patience, and good advice has been much appreciated by the Sophomore class.

Sophomore class sponsors Miss Mildred Ayers and Mr. Leslie Eynon seem to be debating whether or not to jump. The Obarphs ought to be glad that they didn't, for without the sponsors' help, the Sophomores might not have made it through their first year at Poly.

The Sophomores were peppy

The year 1961 dragged onto Poly's campus the poor, pitiful, little Obarphs. They brought their jacks and jumpropes and cried because there was no level place to play. The big, kind, generous, helpful Seniors dried their tears and took them by the hand to show them around their new school. The little mites grew every moment of every day until they became sizable sophomores. Proud of their new significance they decided to show Poly their talents. They persuaded Dr. Goddard to speak at their class assembly and he took us on an exciting tour of New Zealand. The Obarphs showed their Sophomore spirit when they trampled the Juniors in the Interclass Track Meet. During their Sophomore year they learned everything from Driver Education to World Cultures, and prepared themselves for the moment when they would become Juniors.

Sophomore class officers: Lynda Whitehorn, treasurer; Frank Stewart, vice-president; Jeanne Walker, secretary; Ron Hasson, social chairman; and Bill Williamson (in front), president; bone up on all the important facts that help them to handle their jobs efficiently.

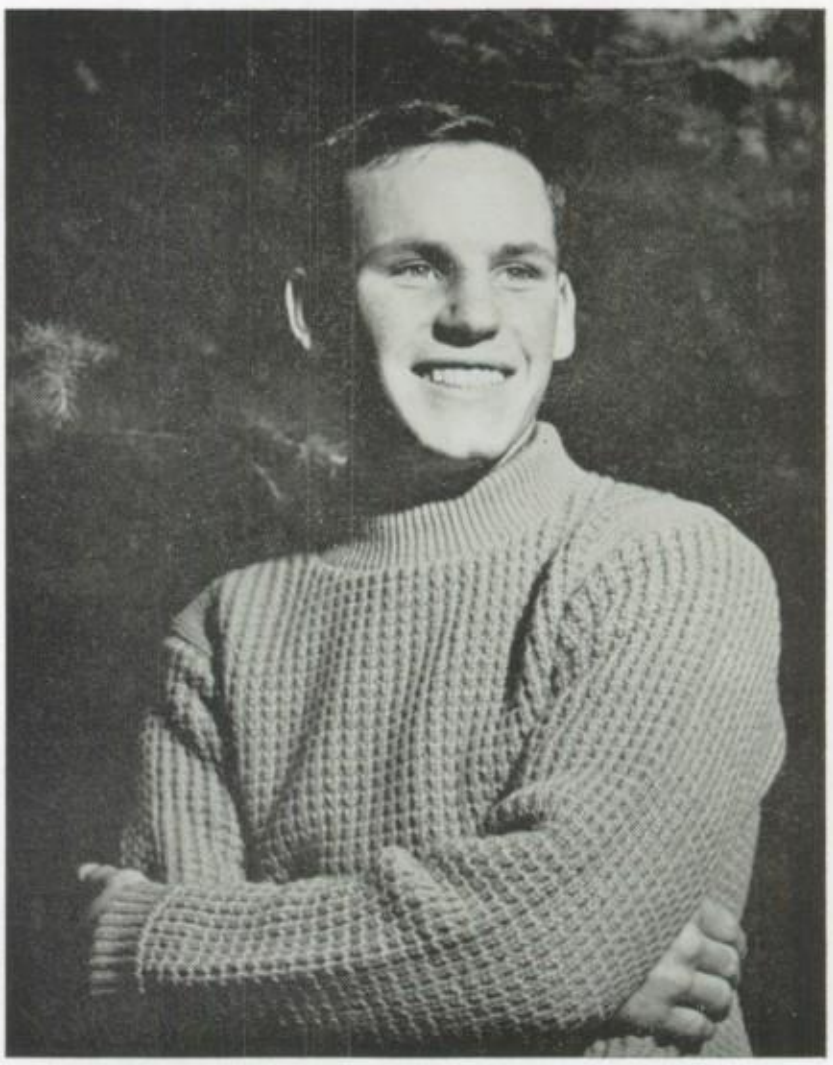
Betsy Hampson, Commissioner of Domain, believes in setting a good example by picking up an ice cream stick that she had dropped.



Ross Brown, as the ASB President, is the number one fellow on the Poly campus. He is also one of the busiest. The student body owes Ross a vote of thanks for his capable handling of school affairs.

Ellen Hamilton, the ex-officio Commissioner of Literary Activities, takes enough time out of her busy schedule to smile for the photographer.

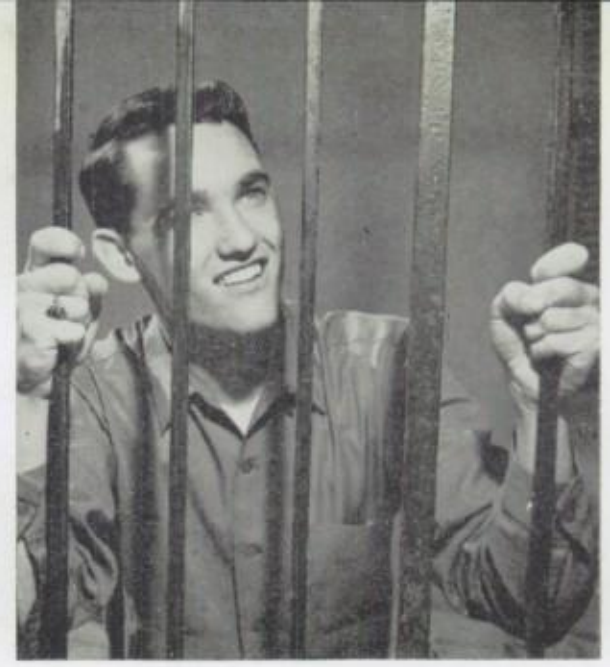
Bottom left: Being a Head Yell Leader isn't all cheering. Just ask Dave Hadden. Part of the job is boosting school spirit by putting up pep signs around campus.

These were the time

"Oh, well," says Tim Lyons, Commissioner of Entertainment, "I liked the assembly."

Kitty Davis, Commissioner of Girl's Welfare, demonstrates the poise and charm which are necessary to be a successful Girls' League president.

Most boys will recognize the guy with the Carmichael smile as Dave Thompson, Commissioner of Boys' Welfare.



Our Commissioner of Safety, William Howard, is so unsafe he had to be put behind bars for his own good (and Poly's). He doesn't seem to mind, though.

The student body of Poly congratulates Mr. Davidson on his fine work as Commission Advisor.

Top right: "Come on everybody, be active," says Commissioner of Activities, Janus Creason.

Cecile Bereal as Commissioner of Publicity kept the campus posted on up-coming activities.

One of the busiest girls on campus is Beverly Linrud, ex-officio Commissioner of Current Publications and Spotlight Editor-in-chief.

and pace setters of Poly

Bottom right: Pat Holliday, looking like the ideal secretary, works on carrying out her duties as Commissioner of Finance.

The secretarial work of the Commission has been handled promptly and efficiently by Judy Mayers, Commissioner of Records.

Ellen Hamilton, this year's Koala Editor, was an energetic whirlwind. Her vivacious personality kept the staff laughing while her timely prodding kept them working. This dual personality, serious and humorous, proved invaluable in making the staff pull together to meet their deadlines and made her friendship one that won't easily be erased by time.

"Well, here goes!" Faculty Editors Kay Chaney and Beverly McCall take a deep breath before knocking on the Faculty Lounge door.

The Koala is a record of

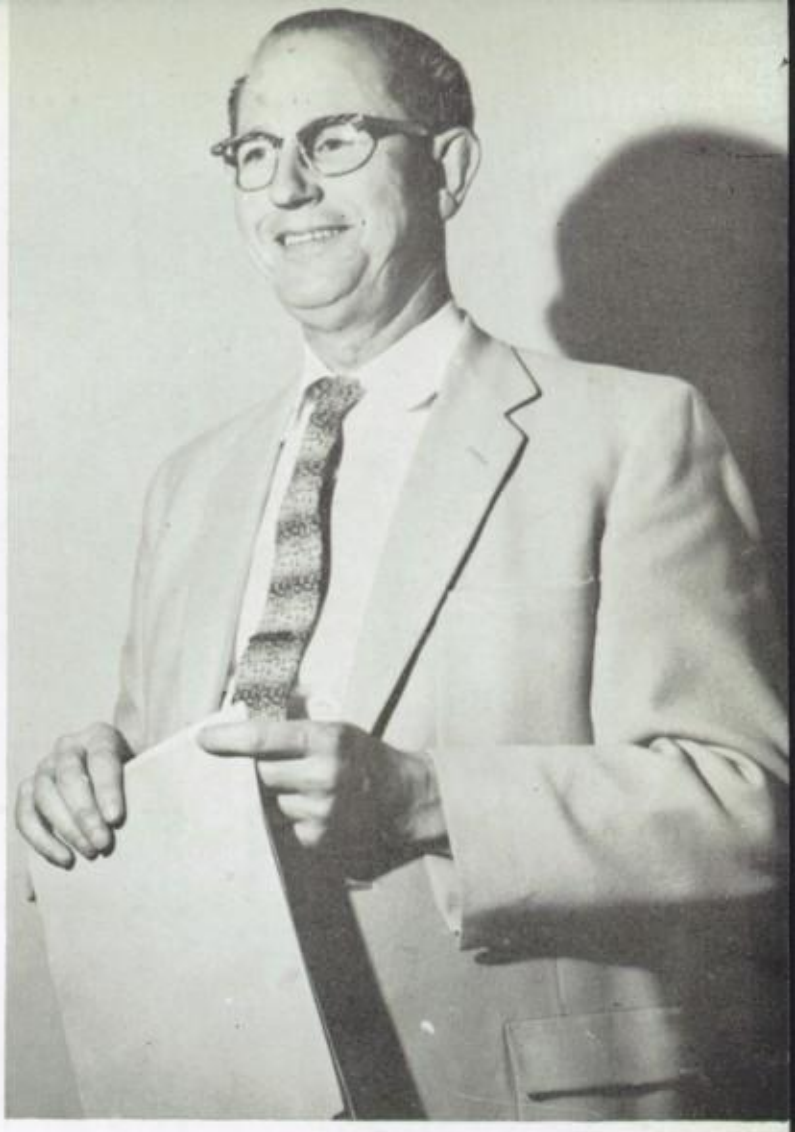
"Who me? Of course I didn't rob a bank!" Robin Mulgannon, Koala Business Manager, explained that the money was part of the haul—er—cash taken in from Koala sales.

Looks like somebody has an appointment, but not to ha e his picture taken! Senior Class Editor, Carolyn Burkes, puts a present in the advisory box of a senior who has b·oken three p.ctura appointments in a row.

With the help of her typing assistant Jackie Worlds, Marychris Brunig (right), the Sophomore and Junior Class Editor, finds her job of keeping track of hundreds of Yucaiques and Obarphs takes less time.

Copy Editor Ann Charters laughs as she thinks of some copy that will never be printed.

The tables were turned on the Koala photographer, Jack Moutier, when he was asked to pose for this picture.



The smile on Mr. Adams' face means that the Koala Staff is frantically working. Mr. Adams' job as Koala Advisor keeps him and the staff busy.

the moments to remember

"Please put an advertisment in the Koala." Judy Wolters practices on Janie Quick before they try their style on the Riverside merchants. Both are Advertising Editors for the Koala.

Koala Sports Editors, Judy Miller, and Jan Riehl, with their assistant, Susie Linkenaugher (left), get in the mood for their job by becoming acquainted with various types of sporting equipment.

Koala Activities Editor, Sue Cruse, and her assistant, Betty Bernstrom, decided to include flag pole climbing as one of Poly's activities.

Beverly Linrud, Spotlight Editor-in-chief, checks on her file to see if there is any last minute work to do.

Assistant Editor of the Spotlight, Diane Grinker, hardly fits in with the drab surroundings of the print shop, but working there is part of her job.

The Spotlight illuminated

The Spotlight reporters, Judy Bitzberger, Craig Dahl, Dave Amdal, Judy Stone, and Michael Leah Little, gather around the reporters' best friend, the pencil sharpener, to discuss the latest campus gossip — er news.

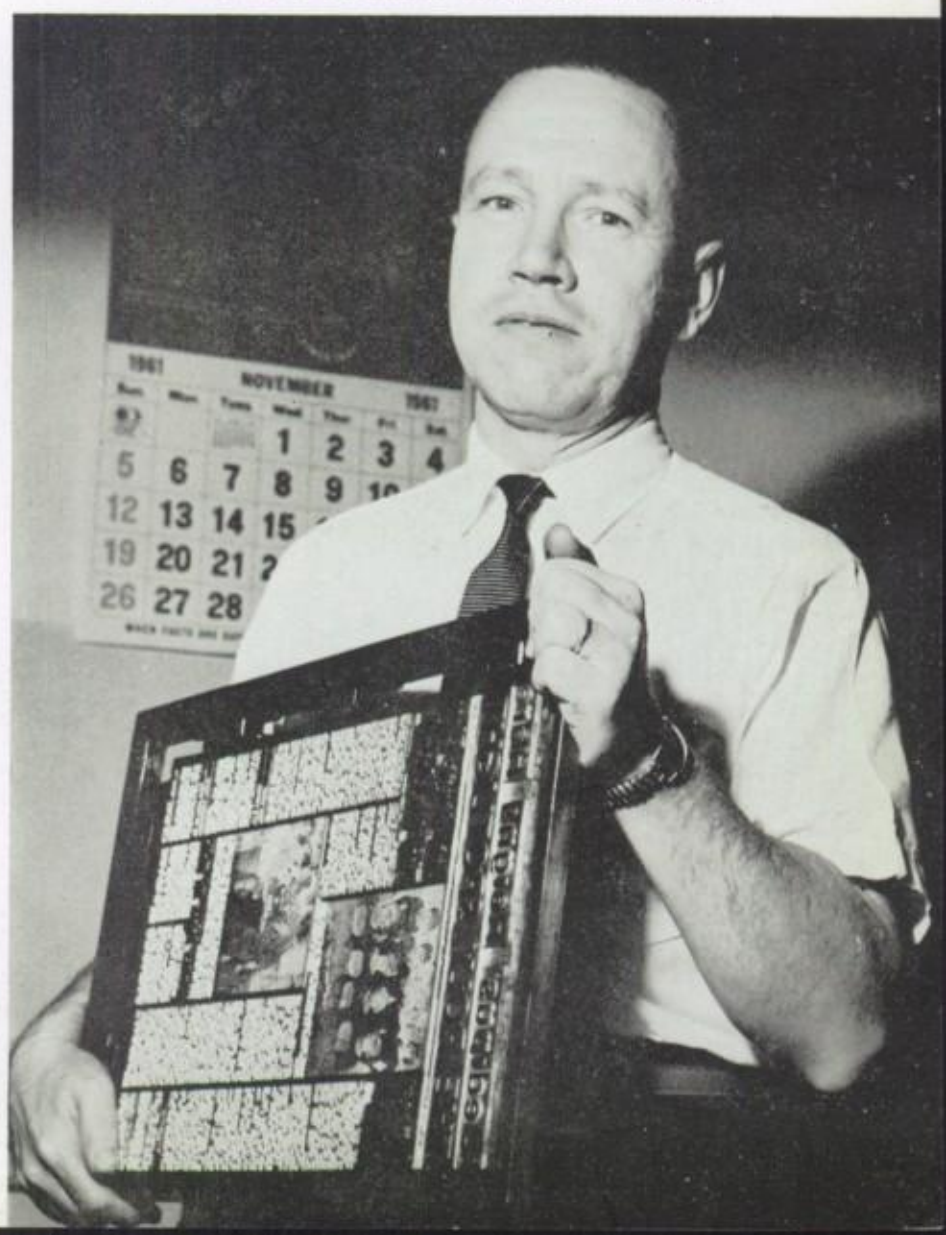
Here is the girl who keeps the Spotlight out of the red, Business Manager Pat Downing.

Don McCoy makes a very good Advertising Manager for the Spotlight, but it's a pretty sure bet that the gleam in his eyes is not from thinking about advertisements.

the year's events

Four of the roving Spotlight reporters, Ron Shaffer, Ray Renfro, Mike Lyons and Tom Pittsford, demonstrate the readiness that makes a good reporter.

The Koala photographer caught Mr. Phillips red-handed in the print shop. It turned out all right though, for he's the Spotlight Advisor and was just making a last minute check on the printing.



Miss Jean Thayer, Dean of Girls, and Kitty Davis, Girls' League President, have given unstintingly of their time and talent in order to make this year a memorable one for all Poly girls.

"Record Only the Sunny Hours" is the Girls' League motto. One of the goals of Girls' League was to increase the "sunny hours" by sponsoring lively activities. By far the most delicious of these activities was the Watermelon Feed, the feast that started off the new for the sophomore girls with sticky faces and full stomachs. The Kick-Off Dance was next on the activity list, and it really kicked off the social year with a bang! Later on, Girls' League got the fathers into the act (with hilarious results) in the Dad-Daughter Night. But even with their full schedule of social activities, Girls' League never forgot that there was a serious purpose behind their organization. They planned and successfully carried out Thanksgiving and Christmas drives, enabling them to give "sunny hours" to needy families.

Any girl who was willing to give up some of her spare time to serve Poly was quickly discovered and put to work by the Girls' League Service Board. Row 1: K. Harshbarger, S. Cruse. Row 2: J. LaBonde, E. Cameron, D. Cavender, C. Bereal. Row 3: J. Quick, J. Schulz.

The Girls' League Board helped all Poly girls have an exciting year by planning interesting activities and by encouraging all girls to serve Poly by participating in such things as the Christmas and Thanksgiving drives. Row 1: P. Caulk, E. Alford, F. Black, K. Davis, K. Barto, F. Savoie, P. Wilkins. Row 2: A. Hunter, M. Patroan, C. Mourier, N. Bamberger, Miss Thayer, M. MacWhinney, D. Cavender, K. Ashbrook, H. Lantz.

"Record only the sunny hours"

The Senior Sponsors, whose job it was to help all sophomore girls find their way around great, big Poly High, answered questions about everything from demerits to boys, and encouraged all the girls to get to know Poly better by joining school clubs. Row 1: N. Bamberger, M. Patroan, B. Bernstrom, N. Lawson. Row 2: A. Ziman, M. Caternichio, L. Walling, E. Orlando, S. Blankenship, J. Riehl, B. Labodie. Row 3: J. Henson, E. Cameron, B. Stewart, R. Oh, oh, looks as if there's going to be an accident. This is one case where a step in time would have saved a messy accident. But accidents and laughs are all part of the fun of Dad-Daughter Night.

Ralph McCroskey and Douglas Gray demonstrate the form which gained them the titles of President of California Scholarship Federation and Vice President of California Scholarship Federation, respectively.

California Scholarship Federation is the goal of many Poly students. It is not an easy goal, but one that requires persistence and the ability to learn. The scholastic achievements of these students are a personal satisfaction to them, as well as a source of pride for their teachers.

and achievement

Christmas was in the air and so was its music. Poly students enjoyed the music of Mr. Stover's band.

There was a time for rewards and National Forensic League was honored. Mr. Bruno Jacobs, National Secretary of N.F.L., presents Walter Ingalls with an award for Poly's ten years of excellence and for winning first place in the Southern California League, 1960-61. Other participants are Joe Lynn, Mr. George Wrentmore, Mr. Robert Kutch, Miss Dixie Surry, and Julia Aschmann.

The POLY ORCHESTRA was "instrumental" in bringing good music to Poly's larger productions, such as the Christmas program and "Annie Get Your Gun." Their excellent playing helped to make the musical end of the productions sparkle. The members are: Violin: C. Taylor, S. Bareham, B. Braniger, R. Diamond, J. Grieshaber, T. Guin, L. Hirst, M. Inmaru, S. Ivanoff, P. Murton, E. Patterson, B. Rittsford, A. Shettel, M. Teague, B. Widmer. Viola: R. McCroskey, V. Leight, S. Mayo, N. Niederkorn. Cello: M. Uusitalo, C. Kazmier, J. Woodside. Remember Homecoming and "Showboat?"

Three smiling princesses, Edrice Williams, Gail Taylor, and Peggy McKeever, are part of the Homecoming Queen's beautiful court. Homecoming night will be a treasured memory to all three girls.

Homecoming candids caused shocks and surprises, but that just added to the fun that Sue Skelley, Dave Thompson, Diana Hawley, and Stan Thomas were having.

The Junior-Senior Prom, "Showboat," glided through Poly, leaving a wake of dreams and romance. Sharing in this atmosphere are John Newstead, Margie Lamar, Art Swain, and Peggy McKeever.

"I Could Have Danced All Night" was more than just a song title to Homecoming Princess Nancy Hobbs as she enjoyed an enchanted evening with her escort, Ron Evans.

Homecoming Princess Lida Light and her escort William Howard dance away a wonderful evening at Poly's Homecoming Dance.

A special moment in the life of Betty Bernstrom was when she was crowned Homecoming Queen by Maxine Maxwell, last year's queen. Homecoming night was a never-to-be-forgotten time for the new queen.

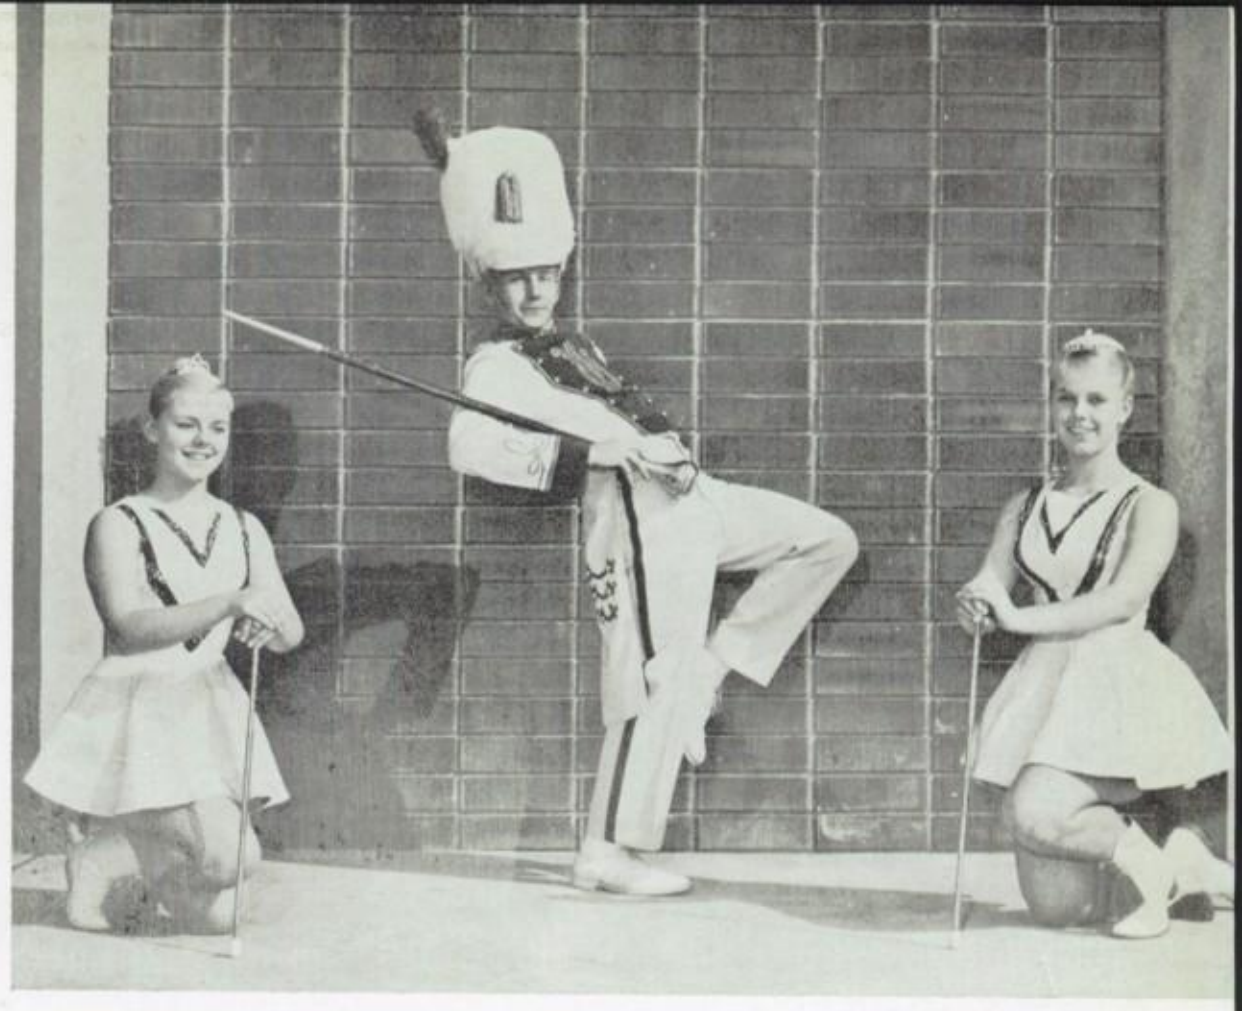
Ever heard of a human dynamo? Well, there are five of them at Poly and they are all cheerleaders. Their vivacious, zesty yell leading sparked instant and enthusiastic response from the crowds at all of the games. No matter how long the games lasted, Linda, Sue, Betty, Lois, and Dave never lost their bounce and saucy spirit. The excited rooters rallied to their vigorous cheers and spurred the Bears on to victory.

DAVE HADDEN
Head Cheerleader

Bonnie Green, Poly's peppy bear, seems to have a serious case of split personality. But this way, she explains, she'll be twice as amusing to the half-time crowd.



Half-time was their time as they twirled and strutted to entertain the crowds. Drum Major Dick Wold and Majorettes Pam and Stephanie Aagaard were dazzling additions to Poly's band.

Time out for pep and spirit

Coach Hammerschmidt, Coach Marshall, and Coach Eister are the men who have encouraged and helped Poly's football team, and they have good reason to smile over the results.

Poly began the CBL football year right with a 10-7 victory over Western. We steamrolled Rubidoux with an overwhelming victory of 20-0. The winning streak was almost stopped by Chaffey, but Poly put up a fierce struggle to beat them 14-13, in one of the year's most exciting games. We won the next game from Pacific without much trouble, scoring 14 points to their 7. Redlands handed us a heartbreaker, defeating us 14 to 0. Poly gathered her strength and in a memorable game trounced Fontana, 26-0. In their next game, the Bears played hard, but couldn't hold back the Rams. When the last point had been recorded it was Poly 13, Ramona 18. San Bernardino added one more game to our losing streak, upsetting the fighting Bears 19 to 7. But the team bounced back for the last game and wiped out Colton, with two touchdowns for Poly and none for Colton. When all was finally over, Poly had a CBL standing of fourth place.

It was a pile-up that gained another touchdown for Poly.

Sue Skelley shows the spirit that helped her lead the crowd in cheers.

Our hoopsters

Poly's BASKETBALL TEAM bounced onto the court and dribbled circles around Newport, defeating them 56-73. Chaffey played a hard, fast game, finally leaving the Bears behind 70-53. But Poly's rebound artists came back and slipped past Pacific 53-52 ,in a dramatic game. The Bears put up a fierce resistance, but couldn't hold back Redlands and were finally defeated 39-48. The quintet rested up and charged back onto the court, overwhelming Fontana 73-47 in a fast-paced game. Good fortune was not with the Bears in the game with Ramona; the Bears were 48-56 losers. Chaffey managed to sneak past our team and won a 60-59 victory. The next time Poly met Redlands we had our revenge, and won 58-44. Once more the hard playing San Bernardino boys broke through Poly's defenses, pushing the Bears out 53-47. But the quintet wasn't licked. They ended the season by snowing under Colton in an 85-33 rout. When all the scores were tallied, the Bears came out with a fourth place standing in CBL.

"These instructions say that in order to be a successful trackster, you must be able to put one foot in front of the other—and fast! Think you can handle that?" asks Coach Marshall of R. Britt. Britt's smile is more than enough answer.

"On your mark, get set, go!" And away went the TRACK TEAM! San Gabriel fell to Poly 35½ - 66⅔. But our track team was just warming up, a fact which Fontana was not able to overcome. Fontana was flattened by the speedy tracksters 86 - 16. Poly sprinted rings around her cross-town rival, running Ramona into the ground 67 - 37. When Poly met San Bernardino the Bears weren't in top form, and Poly came out on the short end 37½ - 55½. Our track team sprang back, though, sprinting into first place by beating Pacific a rousing 72 - 32. Poly's track men were really in high gear as they steamed past Colton 66½ - 37½ in an exciting meet. Hardly stopping to catch their breath, the tracksters breezed on to a 69-35 victory over Chaffey.

Mentally reviewing the day's cross country workout, Coach C. W. Mumma figures who should run in which race at the next meet. Mumma's skillful choice of runners accounts for a good part of the cross country team's success.

They timed it

Poly's SWIM TEAM started off with a big splash this year and no other team could touch them. In free style, medley relay, butterfly, backstroke, breast stroke, and diving, Poly's mermen proved hard (if not impossible) to beat. Chino and Coachella Valley were beaten by Poly's A, B, and C teams in a three-way meet. Poly sliced through Chaffey, defeating them 50 to 41. Pacific found she was no match for Poly; the mermen swam rings around her team, 86 to 10. The next meet ended with halved scores, but no half-way action. Poly really put on a swimming show and took Fontana 60½ to 34½. As Poly's team rejoiced, Ramona fell 55 to 27 before Poly's flashing swimmers. Then the mermen swam right over Redlands 55 to 21 to send Poly on her way to a CBL first place.

To keep things going "swimmingly" is the job of swim coaches Robert Hallock and William Borum. The swim team's final CBL standing of first place attests to the fine work done by both men.

"It's still going!" says Daryl Oveson as he completes his swing and prepares to go into action.

"Batter up and please pass the sno-cone," was the cry of the kids who turned out to watch that great American sport of baseball. Poly's team made watching a real pleasure, as they hit home victory after victory. In a series of exciting games the Bears defeated Chaffey 2 to 0, Pacific 5 to 4, and Fontana 1 to 0. Redlands had a hard hitting team and ran past us 5 to 0. But the Bears got back into the ball game and outhit Berdoo in a rapid-fire 5 to 4 game. The team then went on to soundly tromp Colton in a fast paced game, during which Poly made 12 runs to Colton's 2. Poly's "diamond nine" slugged their way through the CBL season, striking out all opposition to run home with the CBL championship.

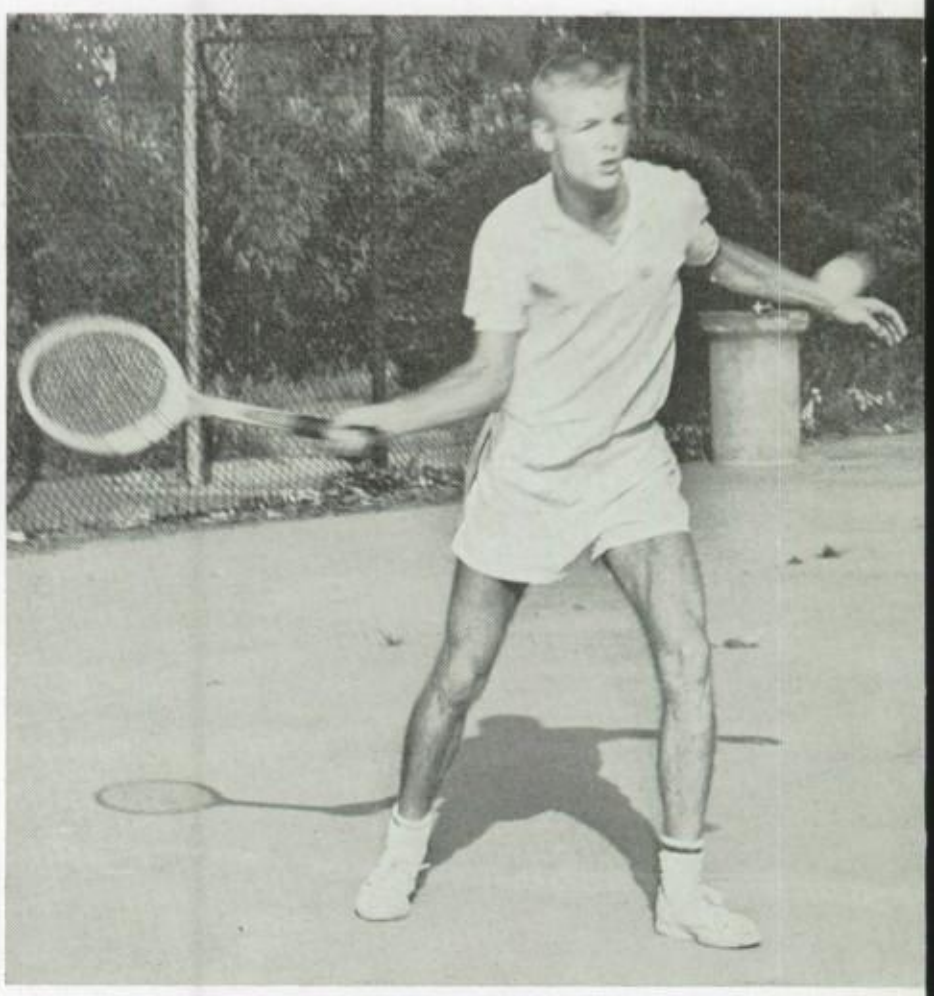
They were victims

"Well, there goes the one hundredth ball of this season," sighs tennis coach Gene Hughes. Despite these small setbacks, the tennis team held its own in sizzling competition.



With his eye on the ball, Don Unland starts his forehand drive for a smashing return and another point for the Poly tennis team.

Is the ball coming or going? It does not really matter to Pete Kingman, who is ready to act in either case.

of a tough racket

Service, not with a smile, but with a purpose, was the motto of Poly's TENNIS TEAM. The netmen took a while to really get in the swing of things, and lost their first three games to Chaffey, Pacific, and Redlands, with scores of 20½ - 12½, 23 - 10, and 33 - 0, respectively. After the first three losses, the team untangled itself and got rolling, serving Fontana a 26 - 7 defeat. Berdoo bowed to Poly 13 - 20 and 0 - 27 in two fast games. Poly's winning streak didn't last, and we fell 0 - 33 and 8 - 25 to Colton. Though the games were quick and hard, Poly's netmen came through with spirit and sportsmanship.

Where services need never be expensive to be memorable.

"They really grow them big at ROME'S TIRE and AUTO SUPPLY, Twelfth and Market Streets," exclaims Steve Schmidt as he looks through one of Rome's larger specimens. Buying tires from ROME'S gives you a wide selection of safe, top quality tires.

"Which one will it be?" This decision is always a hard one to make because JOYCE ACCESSORIES, 3651 Plaza Mall, has such a marvelous selection of hats, purses, and jewelry, as Mary Patroan and Ann Charters can tell you.

Looking like Spring is Ellen Hamilton in a crisp dress from PAM-ALLE DRESS SHOP, 3770 Ninth Street. PAM-ALLE has clothes to complement every taste and personality.

"Now," says Steve Ramenofsky at RIVERSIDE OPTICAL, 4015 Main Street, "can you see better?" "Yes, but everything's upside down!" answers Frances Black. If your world seems out of focus, go to Riverside Optical, where prescription ground glasses are sold at budget terms.

Dorothy,
President of A.F.L.W.
and a real slick chick (babe.)
You've taught me about the ways and means of the A.F.L.W.:ers and if you find you can't pay the "Registration" fee, just give me a ring and I'll help you out,
'cause I've got a special fund for that - don't eat too much and don't forget to take your anti-adolescence pills for Mr. Booth -
- Love 'n' luck -

Good Luck, with Bruce -
Love,

Dorothy,
I enjoyed having you in class this year.
Hope you'll keep up your interesting comments.

Dearest Dorothy,

I certainly have enjoyed the many many gay, happy, jovial, carefree days that we have spent in Geometry this year. I owe so much to you, I just think it is hadn't been for you I might never have met this darling of darlings Jap Reklaw - who has taught me so much about the true meaning of true love. Well the bell is ringing, which is a symbol of our society which means that Quelque chose est fini. So I must bring my little note to a close. I have learned so much Spanish from you and now that makes that I speak 4 languages, English, French, Spanish, and my native tongue Praxonity - Best Wishes

Janice Bruns

Geometry 358

To a real nice girl. I realize I wasn't trying to be a snob. Good luck. Have fun and don't get caught.

Well Dorothy
old pal,
It's been a long year.
We have survived through ballet programs, India, and everything else! Maybe next year you will be able to improve the A.F.L.W. We need more ~~add~~ activities and ~~more~~ closer contact among the Club members. With you as "President" we'll go all the way! We also need more club members. I hope I will see you in the summer and we can work out plans for our club. Love, Lena Lynn
